st. Vincent and The Grenadines the Caribbean you're looking for

DISCOVER THE BEAUTY UNDERWATER

St.Vincent and the Grenadines is one of the last untouched corners of the Caribbean. Blessed with verdant volcanic slopes, welcoming locals and remote island outposts that stretch across 70 miles of clear blue sea, it's a place where savvy scuba divers and island hoppers alike can find adventure both above and below the sea.

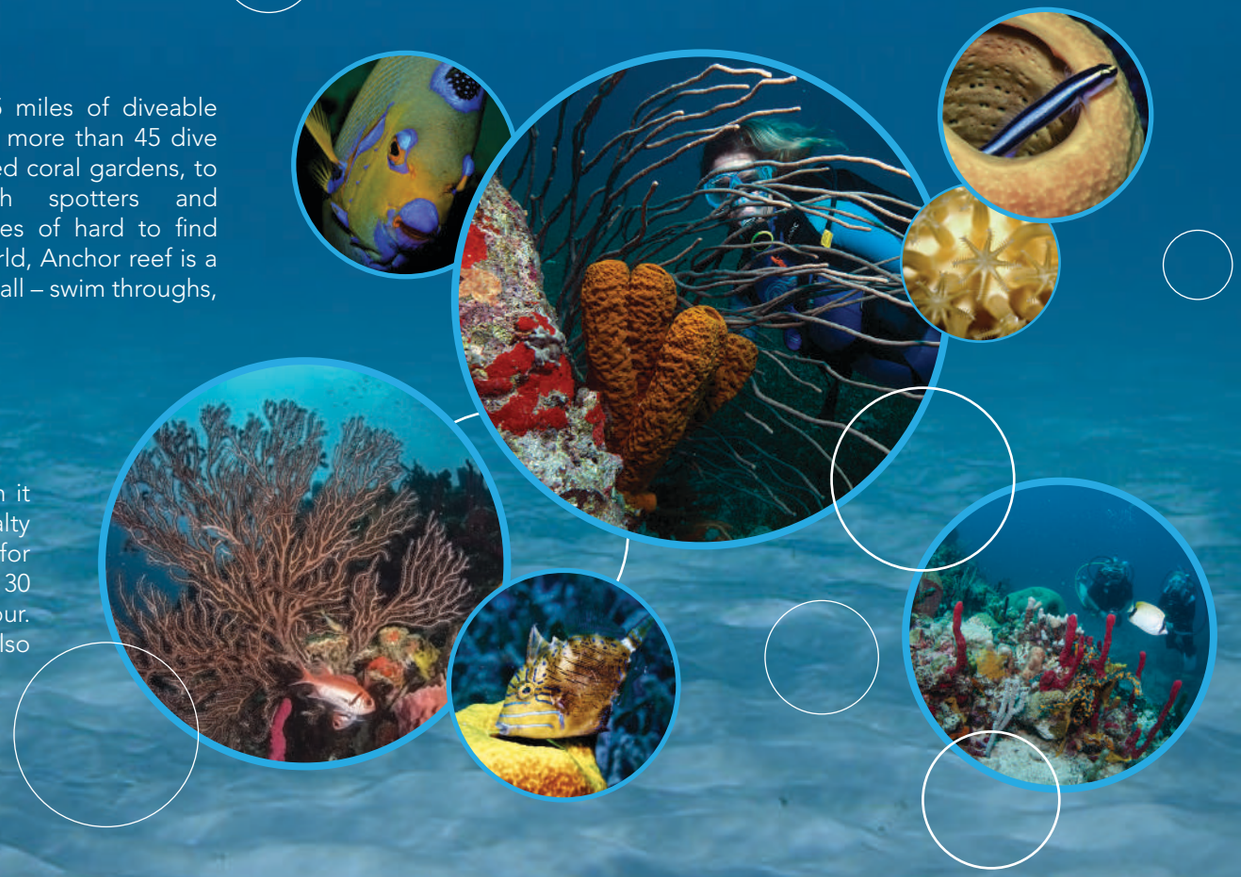
Underwater, St.Vincent and the Grenadines is known for its rare and exotic marine life and has been coined the 'Critter Capital of the Caribbean'. It boasts critter diving unparalleled outside the Coral triangle. Among the 32 islands and cays that comprise the destination, scuba divers can explore more than 100 dive sites, including adrenaline pumping drifts, blissfully uncrowded coral gardens, and dramatic submarine lava flows that coalesce into a wonderland of caves, canyons and walls.

ST. VINCENT

Along its protected Leeward shore, St.Vincent has 25 miles of diveable coastline within consistently calm, clear conditions and more than 45 dive sites range from black-sand muck dives and sundrenched coral gardens, to wrecks and dramatic lava formations. Fish spotters and macro-photographers flock here to catch rare glimpses of hard to find creatures. Voted one of the top 100 dive sites in the world, Anchor reef is a must-see for visiting divers. This dramatic wall dive has it all – swim throughs, black corals, macro critters and 18th century wrecks.

BEQUIA

Bequia feels a world away from St.Vincent even though it sits just a one hour ferry ride away. Picturesque Admiralty Bay and Port Elizabeth serve as the jumping off point for sailing and diving in the Northern Grenadines. About 30 dive sites lay within a 15 minute boat ride from the harbour. Along with Bequia's stunning reef gardens, there are also wrecks, a wall dive and dramatic rock reefs.

THE SOUTHERN GRENADINES


Canouan and Union Island are the hub of diving in the Southern Grenadines, offering access to reefs and to surrounding islands like Mayreau, The Tobago Cays and Petit St.Vincent. Petit St.Vincent is home to the Jean- Michel Cousteau Diving Caribbean Centre, one of two in the world. Divers staying at Palm Island Resort can arrange to be picked up by Grenadines Dive on Union Island. Of all the islands in the area, Mayreau has the largest variety of dive sites including the wreck of the Purina, an underwater hot-spring vent and outstanding reef gardens. No trip to the Grenadines is complete without a visit to the Tobago Cays. This collection of five deserted islands is a protected Marine Park. Divers can come here to swim with the turtles along the pristine horseshoe reef that fringes the Cays, and the secluded World's End Reef boasts graceful sting rays among throngs of tropical reef fish. Diving is also available on Mustique for visitors to that private island.
